We had the pleasure of working with Reg Noël on a collaborative art piece for our office, this past August. Not only was it a wonderful team-building opportunity, but also left us with a unique piece of art, proudly displayed, which visitors often ask about and admire.

Reg's infectious smile and positive attitude made the entire experience incredibly fun and relaxed. Our team took turns working with the concrete mixture and copper pieces – sometimes blindfolded, always laughing. It's a collaborative experience we still talk about regularly, many months later.

I highly recommend visiting regnoel.com and having a look around: the pictures and stories really do speak for themselves!
